James Brown joins King's Lynn business consultancy team

James Brown has been appointed a trainee farm business consultant at Brown & Co's King's Lynn office.

Born into a Staffordshire farming family, he attended Harper Adams University College in Shropshire and gained an honours degree in Business Management and Marketing.

Alongside plenty of practical on-farm experience, James has first hand experience of farmers markets and has worked as a researcher for the Country Land and Business Association. In his college placement year he worked as a trainee consultant in the North of England, assisting farming, landowning and equine clients.

James has moved to King's Lynn to join the Brown & Co business consultancy department, led by partner Rob Hughes. "We are delighted to welcome James to the King's Lynn team," he says. "His appointment is great news for the department and the office as a whole."

James (23) is an active member of the Young Farmers Club and when time permits shows pedigree Texel and Charollais sheep and has won breed champion at several shows.
