Richard Alderson takes on new role with Brown & Co

Richard Alderson has taken on a consultancy role with the expanding agricultural business consultancy team at property and business consultants Brown & Co.

A well-known figure in the local agricultural and business community, Richard held the post of NFU group secretary for Brigg and Epworth for 18 years. Vice chair of the Governors of Bishop Burton College at Beverley, he is also chair of the West Lindsey Strategic Partnership.

With family farming roots in the Yorkshire Dales, Richard previously owned a small dairy and arable farm in North Lincolnshire where he also bred pedigree Jersey cows.

Based at Brown & Co's Brigg office, Richard is working with the established business consultancy team offering specialist advice to farmers and landowners regarding employment issues, agricultural planning, water licensing and single farm payment.

Richard is also closely involved working with the local Anglican and Methodist Churches. When time permits, he enjoys fly fishing and other rural pursuits.
